Graduate Writing Lab

LINKING WORDS (CONJUNCTIONS AND CONNECTORS)

Huang

Definition

Broadly speaking, conjunctions and connectors describe the relationship between two statements. These statements can be written without linking words, but often more information can be succinctly conveyed using these words. Conjunctions grammatically join two clauses (independent or dependent, depending on the conjunction) so that it reads as one sentence. Connectors are used between two separate sentences.

Type of conjunctions

There are four types of conjunctions: coordinating, correlative, subordinating, and conjunctive adverbs (discussed elsewhere). One sentence can contain multiple types of conjunctions, and often does.

С	oordinating Conjunction
Definition	These linking words give equal value to the two elements (nouns, adjectives, clauses, etc.) which they coordinate
Words used (limited list)	 And (addition) or (alternative) but (contrastive) yet (contrastive) nor (negative) 	Note: For and so are sometimes mentioned as coordinating conjunctions, but modern English rarely uses them anymore for that purpose. They are more commonly used as subordinating conjunctions.
Grammar rules	 Conjunctions must go between clauses, etc.) they link Commas are optional EXCEPT and: if there are more the described, a comma must being connected. The analysis between the second to links. For only 2 element necessary but: a comma must always When to use nor vs. or: 	for and and but : nan 2 elements being ust follow each element and must come ast and last element it ts, no comma is o or: links nouns, adjectives, adverb phrases, or positive verb phrases. o nor: links a negative verb phrases. Nor is also often used with "neither." See the last example sentence below as well as the correlative conjunctions section for more details. The graduate student had to teach section and take classes. The graduate student had to teach section, take classes, and conduct research. The service animal was not a pony, but a miniature Example Sentences	 horse. He was exhausted yet very happy. Mary had not gone to the store nor had she visited the gym.

	1
	o Note: Notice here that "not" could be replaced with "neither" and have the same meaning. This is a good way to check if you've used nor correctly.
Quick Practice: correct the sentences	The investigators found a hair clip a bottle of nail polish, and a credit card belonging to the kidnapping victim.
	 She had a scholarship to ballet school but longed to be a doctor. Since you cannot swim, you are not allowed on the boat nor near the docks.
Correlative Conjunction
Definition	These are pairs of coordinating conjunctions; these pairs must be used together . Like coordinating conjunctions, correlative conjunctions describe equal elements .
Words used (limited list)	 bothand, not onlybut also (combining or addition) eitheror, whetheror not (binary choice) neithernor (negative)
Grammar rules	 The first word of the conjunction must go directly before the first subject or clause; the second word of the conjunction must go directly before the second. bothand can only be used with simple subjects However, not onlybut also can be used with simple subjects and clauses
Example Sentences	The paper's results were both impressive and innovative.

	 I will not only grow the cells for the assay, but also interpret the results. The daughter bought not only a designer purse, but also a custom wallet.
	 Harry will either go to the market or the mall this afternoon.
	I neither want to clean my room nor desire to go caroling.
	⊗ Jill neither wanted or needed singing bass novelty.
Quick Practice: correct the	⊗ The child both ate an entire cake and drank a liter of sentences	soda; she soon vomited.
	Mark wanted either Cheerios and Raisin Bran.
Su	bordinating Conjunction
These linking words are often used to expand or further Definition	describe the main clause/element (the explanation clause is subordinate).
as, because, since (cause)
	• so, so that (purpose)
Words used	• although, though (contrastive)
(limited list)	,
(limited list)	after, before, until, while (temporal)
(limited list)	,
(limited list)	 after, before, until, while (temporal) if, unless, provided, whichever, whenever (conditional)
· ·	 after, before, until, while (temporal) if, unless, provided, whichever, whenever (conditional) The conjunction must go before the subordinating clause (the explanation clause)
(limited list) Grammar rules	 after, before, until, while (temporal) if, unless, provided, whichever, whenever (conditional) The conjunction must go before the subordinating clause (the explanation clause) Commas must go at the end of the first clause, which
· ·	 after, before, until, while (temporal) if, unless, provided, whichever, whenever (conditional) The conjunction must go before the subordinating clause (the explanation clause) Commas must go at the end of the first clause, which can be either the subordinating or main clause
· ·	 after, before, until, while (temporal) if, unless, provided, whichever, whenever (conditional) The conjunction must go before the subordinating clause (the explanation clause) Commas must go at the end of the first clause, which
,	 after, before, until, while (temporal) if, unless, provided, whichever, whenever (conditional) The conjunction must go before the subordinating clause (the explanation clause) Commas must go at the end of the first clause, which can be either the subordinating or main clause Before going to the game (subordinate), we often eat
Grammar rules	 after, before, until, while (temporal) if, unless, provided, whichever, whenever (conditional) The conjunction must go before the subordinating clause (the explanation clause) Commas must go at the end of the first clause, which can be either the subordinating or main clause Before going to the game (subordinate), we often eat at the pub (main).
,	 after, before, until, while (temporal) if, unless, provided, whichever, whenever (conditional) The conjunction must go before the subordinating clause (the explanation clause) Commas must go at the end of the first clause, which can be either the subordinating or main clause Before going to the game (subordinate), we often eat at the pub (main). Although very cute (sub), pandas are not suitable
Grammar rules	 after, before, until, while (temporal) if, unless, provided, whichever, whenever (conditional) The conjunction must go before the subordinating clause (the explanation clause) Commas must go at the end of the first clause, which can be either the subordinating or main clause Before going to the game (subordinate), we often eat at the pub (main). Although very cute (sub), pandas are not suitable pets (main).
Grammar rules	 after, before, until, while (temporal) if, unless, provided, whichever, whenever (conditional) The conjunction must go before the subordinating clause (the explanation clause) Commas must go at the end of the first clause, which can be either the subordinating or main clause Before going to the game (subordinate), we often eat at the pub (main). Although very cute (sub), pandas are not suitable pets (main). Candice was feeling lonely (main), so she adopted another cat (sub). Peanut butter is delicious (main), provided you don't
Grammar rules	 after, before, until, while (temporal) if, unless, provided, whichever, whenever (conditional) The conjunction must go before the subordinating clause (the explanation clause) Commas must go at the end of the first clause, which can be either the subordinating or main clause Before going to the game (subordinate), we often eat at the pub (main). Although very cute (sub), pandas are not suitable pets (main). Candice was feeling lonely (main), so she adopted another cat (sub).
Grammar rules	 after, before, until, while (temporal) if, unless, provided, whichever, whenever (conditional) The conjunction must go before the subordinating clause (the explanation clause) Commas must go at the end of the first clause, which can be either the subordinating or main clause Before going to the game (subordinate), we often eat at the pub (main). Although very cute (sub), pandas are not suitable pets (main). Candice was feeling lonely (main), so she adopted another cat (sub). Peanut butter is delicious (main), provided you don't have a nut allergy (sub). Mary was hungry while at the grocery store so she
Grammar rules Example Sentences	 after, before, until, while (temporal) if, unless, provided, whichever, whenever (conditional) The conjunction must go before the subordinating clause (the explanation clause) Commas must go at the end of the first clause, which can be either the subordinating or main clause Before going to the game (subordinate), we often eat at the pub (main). Although very cute (sub), pandas are not suitable pets (main). Candice was feeling lonely (main), so she adopted another cat (sub). Peanut butter is delicious (main), provided you don't have a nut allergy (sub). Mary was hungry while at the grocery store so she bought chips ice cream and an entire cake.
Grammar rules Example Sentences Quick Practice: correct the	 after, before, until, while (temporal) if, unless, provided, whichever, whenever (conditional) The conjunction must go before the subordinating clause (the explanation clause) Commas must go at the end of the first clause, which can be either the subordinating or main clause Before going to the game (subordinate), we often eat at the pub (main). Although very cute (sub), pandas are not suitable pets (main). Candice was feeling lonely (main), so she adopted another cat (sub). Peanut butter is delicious (main), provided you don't have a nut allergy (sub). Mary was hungry while at the grocery store so she
Grammar rules Example Sentences	 after, before, until, while (temporal) if, unless, provided, whichever, whenever (conditional) The conjunction must go before the subordinating clause (the explanation clause) Commas must go at the end of the first clause, which can be either the subordinating or main clause Before going to the game (subordinate), we often eat at the pub (main). Although very cute (sub), pandas are not suitable pets (main). Candice was feeling lonely (main), so she adopted another cat (sub). Peanut butter is delicious (main), provided you don't have a nut allergy (sub). Mary was hungry while at the grocery store so she bought chips ice cream and an entire cake.

Types of connectors

We can think of connectors as functionally similar to coordinating and subordinating conjunctions, but the former connects complete sentences (instead of) nouns, clauses, etc. Because connectors often use different words than conjunctions, we need to be careful that we do not use a conjunction where a connector should be and vice versa. Below are some common connectors and their corresponding conjunction. If you often struggle with run-on sentences, try replacing the conjunction with the correct connector!

Conjunction	Corresponding Connector
and	also, in addition, additionally, moreover, furthermore
but	however, even so, though, nevertheless, nonetheless, still, yet, in contrast, on the other hand, on the contrary
so, because (cause- effect)	therefore, thus, consequently, hence, for this reason, as a result, that is why
so (similarity)	similarly, likewise
before	beforehand, before this, first, then, next, afterwards
or	alternatively, otherwise
while (same time)	meanwhile, at the same time/moment

Grammar rules	 Connectors must go between the two statements which they connect. Connectors can go before or after the subject of the second sentence. Ex. Mount Kilimanjaro is on the Equator. It, however, has a covering of snow and ice. A comma must follow a connector if it is the 1st word in the sentence. If it's not: If the connector goes after the subject of the sentence but before the verb, use a comma before and after the connector
	 (see above). Connectors can sometimes go after the subject and verb of the sentence, but they follow different grammar rules (not discussed). Usually, though, these connectors do not require commas.
	A ghost named Casper haunted the house. It, though , was not friendly.
Example Sentences	We had to get to the beach early. Otherwise , we have missed the sunrise.
	The windows were very old. Consequently , the room was cold and drafty.
	Steph loves ice cream. Her sister, likewise , adores gelato.

Quick Practice: correct the sentences	⊗ The meadow seemed buck nonetheless knew its dark	len in the well. Lassie was at the vet. olic and innocuous. The people of the village secret. s. They love shocking the public, also.
Two main considerati	When to use conjunctions should be taken into accou	on vs. connector relaying know	ledge already known to the rea	t the statement after the conjunction is der. Connectors are used when the ntences and is not assumed knowledge.
If it snows tomorrow, the city will send the plows.		It may snow tomorrow. If so , the city will send the plows.
In the left example, the statement that follows the conjunction implies that the reader already knows that there is a chance of snow. The example on the right must state first that it may snow and then the connector describes the effect of the snow.
using a conne	ector, the separation between tw	lies that they are part of the same idea. By wo statements allows their relationship to be apportant for professional writing.
Cars can be dangerous and they pollute. Cars can be dangerous. Moreover ,		Cars can be dangerous. Moreover , they pollute.
The left sentence is structured so that "dangerous" and "pollute" are two equal points that emphasize one broader message: cars are bad. The example on the right is structured to make two separate points, and "moreover" indicates that "pollute" is more important.
	Practice	Э
Re-write the sentence correct answers)	e with the appropriate punctuati	ion and linking word. (There are multiple
1. She is afraid of dogs She was bitten by her neighbors' Chihuahua as a child

1. She is afraid of dogs She was bitten by her neighbors' Chihuahua as a child
2. Tsunamis are highly destructive events They are rare and often unpredictable
3. Chickens have wings They cannot fly
4. Penny did not pass the class She never did her homework

5. The Mayans were one of the most academically advanced cultures in pre-Colombian North America | The cause for the collapse of their civilization is still unknown

Resources & More Practice

 $\frac{https://guinlist.wordpress.com/2012/11/26/40-conjunctions-versus-connectors/}{http://linguapress.com/grammar/conjunctions.htm}$

More exercises can be found:

http://www.agendaweb.org/grammar/conjunctions.html

http://www.grammar-quizzes.com/connectsum.htmlComprehensive list of linking words: http://www.smart-

words.org/linking-words/linking-words.pdf